Nature preserve proposed for Chouteau

Project would create recreation area;
$4M in funding not entirely in place

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

A 600-acre nature preserve that would include equestrian, mountain bike and cross-country skiing trails has been proposed for Chouteau Island.

GRANITE CITY Trailnet Inc., which is overseeing the rehabilitation of the Old Chain of Rocks Bridge into a bicycle/pedestrian trail, has proposed spending almost $4 million on the project, but it appears that Trailnet will not be able to obtain all the needed funding at this time.

Trailnet had proposed using $500,000 from a settlement fund involving Shell Oil as matching funds to obtain $2.5 million in federal and state funds.

A settlement fund is a fine or other penalty imposed on a company. Instead of the money going to the government, it is given to outside agencies as grants.

Ted Curtiss, executive director of Trailnet, said nothing has officially been announced, but Trailnet has heard that the Chouteau Island project would not receive the entire $500,000 they had asked for. That would also decrease the amount of federal and state funds available for the project.

"What exactly we're going to get, we're not sure," he said. "We'll be doing something there, but we're going to have to modify our scope."

He said it appears that part of the settlement fund will go toward buyouts in flood-prone areas.

Curtiss said that although it appeared Trailnet would have to modify their plan at present, if other funding sources were found, the entire project could be done.

"I think it could be a great project, but it's one of those things that takes a while to get going," he said.

When finished, the total project would include more than 600 acres of recreational and restored land, including 10 miles of mountain bike and hiking trails, five miles of equestrian paths, a 200-acre ecological restoration project and new fishing areas.

Much of the property in the proposed preserve now belongs to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, while other property would have to be purchased.

According to a preliminary proposal, Chouteau Island is considered a "prime candidate" for such a project.

"Chouteau Island is the link between the Missouri bikeway system via the Old Chain of Rocks Bridge and the Illinois Confluence Bikeway," the report stated. "A bikeway across the island will permit a continuous trail linking Missouri's Gateway Arch and the Columbia Bottom Confluence area with Illinois' Pere Marquette State Park and the Lewis and Clark site."

The project would also allow construction of parking facilities on Chouteau Island for the bridge and bike trails. Currently, there is no real access to the bridge from Illinois and all events held on it have been staged from the Missouri side.

The first phase of the $3.4 million bridge restoration project — which will make the structure accessible and safe for public use — is expected to be completed this summer and a grand opening has been tentatively scheduled for June 6.

The Old Chain of Rocks Bridge and proposed Chouteau Island projects are part of the larger Southwestern Illinois Regional Greenways Plan. The plan is being developed in cooperation with the Metro-East Greenway Alliance and the Illinois Department of Natural Resources and was prepared by the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission.

Worthen: Water problems solvable Wetlands areas would help stop drainage troubles

By Mike Heil
Staff writer

Granite City's ongoing water drainage problems could be eliminated through proper maintenance of an ecological restoration system, according to Richard Worthen, coordinator of the Metro-East Regional Stormwater Committee.

Worthen made the statement to a meeting of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce's Board of Directors Economic Development Committee, which was held at Big Duga's Restaurant in Madison.

Worthen said the key to the system would be wetland areas. Such areas would be "created and protected and would enter into a maintenance plan so that water can be taken care of in the most natural fashion possible," Worthen said.

"It's the cheapest process we have going, and it works." Worthen went on to say that the wetlands project may be part of an ecological restoration project if enough engineering data can be gathered by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The Corps is currently gathering data from Hartford Canal to the bluffs. Worthen said the information gathered would benefit the Tri-City area.

"It will solve your water problems," Worthen told the group. "To keep the project going, local communities must come up with the money to help finance it. The Corps of Engineers, the Natural Resource Conservation Service and U.S. Environmental Protection Agency are agencies funding the project. Local communities must each come up with 25 percent of what the federal agencies are spending.

The first and second year's finances have been completed with financial assistance from Madison and St. Clair counties.

"If federal agencies don't receive financial help from other neighboring communities, the project is dead," Worthen said.

The project will not be completed until the Corps of Engineers completes a document on engineering data.

Final Pontoon Beach election decision could come today Crouch suit against Jim Denham's candidacy scheduled for hearing in Edwardsville

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

A final decision on the number of mayoral candidates in the Pontoon Beach election may come as soon as today.

A suit by Pontoon Beach Police Chief

Michael Crouch seeking to have Jim Denham thrown off the ballot will be heard at 3:30 p.m. today, Thursday, in Room 240 of the Madison County Courthouse in Edwardsville. Associate Judge James Hackett is hearing the case. As it stands right now, the mayor's race is a three-way contest between incumbent Glen Wilson, Pontoon Beach Village Trustee and Presswood and Denham, a retired police captain.

Crouch's suit claims that the village's Electoral Board ignored technical violations in Denham's petitions and allowed Village Clerk Mary Rowden to remain on the Electoral Board to consider the matter.

In February, the Electoral Board voted 2-1 to allow Denham to remain on the ballot. That board met Sunday to review the case.

Crouch had wanted Rowden removed from the board, claiming she had a conflict of interest. "Ms. Rowden should have been removed from the Village Electoral Board in order for the board to proceed with a fair and impartial hearing," the suit stated. "The board, with Ms. Rowden as the deciding vote, ruled to allow Ms. Rowden to remain..."

Crouch also said Denham committed several technical violations, including failing to number petitions and listing himself as an "independent" on his statement of candidacy, but as a member of the "New Beginnings Party" on his petitions.

Crouch also argued that because Rowden took election papers home in violation of a village ordinance, there was a

At the Electoral Board hearing, Rowden said she took the documents home to prevent tampering, citing a "less-than-harmonious" relationship with Crouch and the police department.

At the Electoral Board hearing, all the issues were settled by a 2-1 vote, with Rowden and Trustee and Electoral Board Chairman Irene Karlechik on one side and Trustee Bob Abel on the other.

Gun possession bill stiffens penalties on state's felons

Bipartisan work will help get this legislation passed

By Rep. Steve Davis

Quite often, the General Assembly considers legislation that is controversial. Sometimes the debate is partisan and split down party lines.

More often than not, legislation comes along that everyone can agree upon.

Last week, with the help of Madison County State's Attorney Bill Haine, we were able to introduce legislation to stiffen the penalties against felons who illegally obtain and possess guns.

This is legislation that everyone agreed needs to become law. The bill, known as HB115, passed out of committee unanimously. The measure cracks down on felons caught with firearms by increasing the penalty from a Class 3 felony to a Class 2 felony.

Along with the increase in classification will come more jail time and a stiffer fine. If the legislation becomes law, felons caught with firearms would receive three to seven years in jail and up to a $10,000 fine. The bill also makes offenders convicted of this illegal firearm possession ineligible for probation, early release or conditional discharge.

In essence, the bill will put violent repeat offenders away for longer terms and it ensures that they will serve their full sentence.

Now that the bill has passed out of committee, it moves on to the House, where it will be voted on by all 118 members.

After approval in the House, the Senate will consider the legislation. If the Senate approves the measure it will advance to the governor's desk, where he can either sign it into law or veto the bill.

A veto of the bill effectively kills the legislation and we would need to start the entire process over again in the next General Assembly. I am confident that this important legislation will become law.

I have always felt that working with members of both parties to pass legislation will help our region. There is plenty of common ground among the political parties. When we work together, everyone benefits.

Other legislation that I am working on during this General Assembly will address the tragedy that occurred two years ago in Alton during the Fourth of July fireworks display. Three people were killed that day.

The fireworks company that put on the show was careless in its launching procedures. It turned out that there are few procedures and little regulation to ensure public safety. With the cooperation of many in the fireworks industry, I have drafted legislation to require more training and licensing that we hope will help avoid another tragedy.

Another legislative item of enormous importance to our region is the extension of Interstate 255 from Illinois 143 to Illinois 67. This project is vital to the continued economic development and public safety of the entire southwestern Illinois region.

I have been working with the Illinois Department of Transportation, the governor's office and my colleagues in the legislature to make sure that this project receives the appropriate funding. I will continue to provide updates on the I-255 extension and other legislative initiatives in my future columns.

If you have any questions or anything that I can do for you or your family, contact my office.

Our East Alton office is located at 2 Terminal Drive, Suite 108, East Alton. Our phone number is 259-4894. When the General Assembly is in session, I can be reached at (217) 782-5996.

Our state's farmers need more open markets

They also need less taxes and a level playing field, as well

By Sen. Peter Fitzgerald

In 1940, the average American farmer fed 19 people through his labor. Today, a farmer can feed 129 people.

The hard work and ingenuity of America's farmers have made U.S. agriculture the pride of the nation. But farmers today face serious challenges.

In the last several months, hog prices have plummeted and are still below cost. Corn and soybean prices are in a slump. Agricultural exports are expected to fall $4.5 billion this year alone for an overall drop of 18 percent since 1996.

Farmers struggle under the burden of excessive taxes and regulation. And farmers lack adequate means to weather the ups and downs of today's unpredictable agricultural markets.

The bottom line is that many Illinois farmers are having trouble making ends meet and farms are shutting down because federal agricultural policies do not provide sufficient solutions.

Agriculture is critical to both the economy of America and Illinois. Including related industries, agriculture is the nation's largest employer.

Illinois' 76,000 farms cover more than 28 million acres — nearly 80 percent of our state's land — and Illinois farm product sales generate more than $9 billion annually.

When I entered the U.S. Senate last month, I worked hard to secure a seat on the Senate Agriculture Committee so that our state and our farmers could have a strong voice in Washington.

We need to focus on three areas: opening new overseas markets for farm products; reducing the federal tax and regulatory burden on farmers and rural businesses; and ensuring farmers have adequate risk management tools.

First, farmers need open overseas markets for farm and food products.

Illinois farmers depend on foreign trade for their economic well-being. In 1997, Illinois exported $3.7 billion in agricultural commodities, ranking third among all states.

But over the last three years, farm exports dropped nationwide, putting many Illinois farmers at risk.

Congress and U.S. trade officials should work to ensure that American farmers are able to sell their products in the world market. In my first legislative act as senator, I joined four colleagues to introduce legislation requiring U.S. trade negotiations so that our farmers can compete on a level playing field and fight for a better share of retail agriculture sales.

I support fast-track trade negotiating authority so that the administration can be in a better position to tear down international trade barriers.

We must, at the same time, work to ensure that our trading partners adhere to all existing trade agreements.

Secondly, farmers need lower taxes.

Eliminating the estate tax on family farmers will ensure that farms can be passed on to the next generation. According to USDA figures, farmers are six times more likely to face inheritance taxes than other Americans.

Family farmers work hard and pay taxes throughout their lives. They build a productive and successful family business and hope eventually to pass it on to their children.

A farm's value is stored overwhelmingly in liquid assets: land, livestock, and physical capital. Farmers who don't have cash available to pay the estate tax are often forced to sell their farms to pay the government.

Third, farmers need adequate risk-management tools.

Last year, the federal government provided a significant amount of money in emergency disaster assistance to farmers. Perhaps this would not have been necessary if farmers could access, in the first instance, well-designed risk-management tools.

This year, the Senate will examine the USDA's crop insurance system. We need to look at whether the current system provides adequate protection against risk and evaluate the development of new risk management tools.

For farmers to prosper, our nation must have economic farm and trade policies that promote investment and growth in agricultural communities and agricultural states like Illinois.

A healthy agricultural economy has ripple effects through many industries and is critical for the economic prosperity of both Illinois and America. As your new senator, I look forward to addressing these issues in the coming years.

Peter Fitzgerald, R-Inverness, is a United States Senator from Illinois.

Jury finds Collinsville man guilty in racially related 1996 firebombing

By Dennis Grubaugh
Staff writer

A jury found a Collinsville man guilty in a racially related firebombing, despite a prosecution hampered by missing and uncooperative witnesses.

METRO-EAST The jury deliberated a little more than two hours Friday evening before reaching the verdict against Billy J. Hayes, 30. "I'm innocent," Hayes said loudly as he was taken from the courtroom by sheriff's deputies. "They're putting an innocent man in jail. I want you to know that."

Hayes was convicted of aggravated arson, a crime punishable by six to 30 years in prison, or more if Associate Judge James Hackett later determines that aggravated factors apply.

Hayes was accused of lighting a gasoline-filled bottle and throwing it through a bedroom window of the home of Joseph Groce and his wife, Harriet Cannida-Groce, just after 1 a.m. Aug. 29, 1996.

The Groces repaired the fire damage and still live in the house in the 100 block of Kimberly Court, just outside Maryville.

"There was a lot of anger in the beginning, but as time goes on, it kind of dies down some. It's a nice neighborhood, but this will have lifelong effects," said Cannida-Groce, who is black. Her husband and the defendant are white.

She said neighbors have shown great support for them since the fire.

"We feel comfortable in the neighborhood. This was an outsider who did this. We knew it had to be," she said.

Authorities said Hayes was acting at the request of a friend, William Hunter II, whose parents live next door to the Groces. Hunter has been similarly charged in the case but was not at the scene when the firebombing occurred, authorities said.

Prosecutor Rich Rybak built a case almost solely on one witness after Hunter turned up missing for the trial. He was to have testified against Hayes in return for a lighter sentence.

Rybak said the deal with Hunter is now off and his trial will go forward. A warrant has been issued for his arrest in unrelated cases involving probation violation and criminal damage to property.

"I'm very pleased, and I think justice was done. This was the most difficult case I have ever had in this respect," Rybak said.

State's Attorney Bill Haine said he was pleased with the verdict and Rybak's efforts. "This was violent racism at its worst. We're going to ask for many, many years in prison for this case, I guarantee you."

The decisive testimony came from prosecution witness Sean Warren of Collinsville, who said that Hayes approached him the night before the fire to ask him to help. Warren said he refused and learned the following morning that the house had been firebombed.

Warren said he and his girlfriend were threatened by Hayes to keep them quiet as the case was being investigated by the Madison County Sheriff's Department.

Both Rybak and Groce praised Warren's willingness to get involved.

Other prosecution witnesses, including Hayes' brother David and his sister-in-law, Monica Hayes, recanted testimony they had given to the grand jury in May 1997. On Friday they testified they could not recall anything to implicate Hayes.

Defense attorney Thomas Hidebrand said the jury based its decision on emotion instead of facts, pointing out that the main witness was a self-confessed drug addict.

Rough season

Alton's first-year coach jumps into tough SWC race

Mike Brey picked a heckuva year to start coaching basketball in the Southwestern Conference. Brey, the first-year head coach at Alton High School, skipped the frying pan and went straight to the fire. Most would agree that Southwestern Conference boys basketball was strong this year and, in talking with some of the veteran coaches in the league, Brey's high regard for the league was well-founded.

"Mike Walder (Edwardsville coach) said the league from top to bottom was as strong as ever since he's been coaching," Brey said. "He said there may have been better teams in other years, but the depth of the league is as strong as it has ever been."

"Bob Bone (Collinsville coach) said the league had as much talent as it has ever had during this season," Brey said. The competitiveness of the league certainly bore out in the final standings. Edwardsville and East St. Louis tied for the league championship, each with a 9-3 record. Granite City was last at 2-10, but one of the Warriors' victories was against co-champ Edwardsville. Belleville West, which finished fifth in the league, managed a victory against co-champ East St. Louis.

"Every team was good, even though their record might not reflect it," Brey said. "Our league won about 74 percent of its games outside the conference, and that's not playing easy teams, either."

"We had a lot of close games and some buzzer-beaters. It really didn't matter which team was playing another. There were a lot of competitive games."

Brey's own squad was only 4-8 in league play, but five of the losses were by seven points or less.

It shouldn't surprise anyone, then, that the SWC has three of the top teams in this week's Collinsville Sectional and will have the champion. East St. Louis easily disposed of Chatham Glenwood on Tuesday night. Edwardsville and Belleville East were scheduled to square off on Wednesday, with the winner to meet East St. Louis on Friday night for the championship at Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville.

Players such as 6-foot-9 junior Darius Miles of East St. Louis and 6-10 senior Dan Lytle of Edwardsville helped make the SWC as strong as it was this season. Each owns a victory against the other.

Edwardsville got the better of the Flyers in December, winning 58-42. Lytle had 27 points and 12 rebounds in the game, compared to Miles' 11 points, 10 rebounds and nine blocked shots.

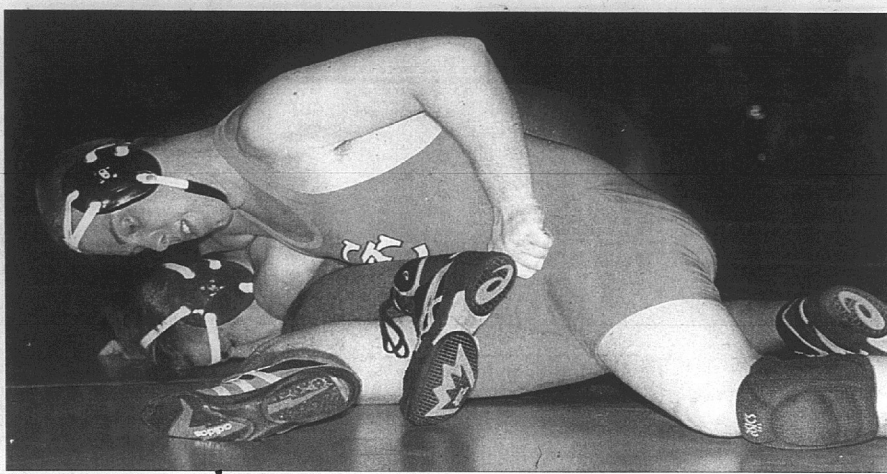

The Flyers won the rematch 54-53 in February. Miles had 22 points, 15 rebounds and 12 blocked shots. Lytle countered with 21 points and 14 rebounds.

"They're both outstanding players," said Brey, who was an assistant high school coach in Paducah, Ky., for four seasons before taking the Alton job. "Miles is the best defensive player I've ever seen in high school. He's quicker and more agile than Lytle."

"Lytle positions himself so well. He puts himself in a position to score. He plays

Three Warriors make all-star team

Granite City senior 215-pounder Kevin Venne, a state qualifier, was scheduled to wrestle Wednesday night in the St. Louis all-star wrestling event.

Simon was to direct the Illinois team vs. Missouri

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

The top senior wrestlers from the St. Louis region tried to settle the issue of which state was better on Wednesday night.

Missouri and Illinois sent representatives in 13 weight classes to battle in the annual Illinois-Missouri All-Star Meet at Meramec Community College in Kirkwood, Mo. "We have a pretty solid lineup," said Granite City Wrestling Club coach Scott Simon, who coached the Illinois side. "We only have one state place winner, but we have a lot of sectional champions. Missouri has a lot of tough kids in that lineup. It seems like every year Illinois has at least one guy upset somebody ranked higher from

Sollberger will guide speedy North team

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

The Mississippi Valley Club Hockey Association is having two all-star games this weekend to keep experienced seniors from hammering away on young kids. Nonetheless, the MVCHA Class AA all-star game between established clubs will still have an experienced senior-oriented team going against a group that will rely on youngsters. The Southern Division, featuring newly-crowned MVCHA champion O'Fallon, has 15 seniors among the 22 players selected to the team. The Northern Division team has 11 seniors on the roster for Saturday's 4:15 p.m. contest at the U.S. Ice Sports

Four Warriors players chosen to play in MVCHA all-star game but only two are on the forward lines. Three are goalies and the other six are defensemen. The Northern team may be a little younger but Illinois Warriors coach Paul Sollberger, who will guide the team after leading the Warriors to the regular-season division crown, thinks his stars also will be quicker. "The one thing we definitely have, I think, is a team speed advantage," Sollberger said. "I'm looking to put Bobby Meszaros (Warriors), Carl

Coleman (Edwardsville) and Jim Rogers (Bethalto Civic Memorial) on the top line. They all played youth hockey together, they are all deadly, they can all score from anywhere, they are all quick and they are all good passers. Then I'm looking to come back with Scotty Werner (Alton Marquette), who is a big strong player, and complement him with Dustin (Wesley, Warriors) and Corey Newgent (Dethalto). I have things I can do with David (Svezia, Warriors), Derek Walter (Marquette) and Joe Paynie (Roxana). They can drive the other guys crazy defensively. "I'm really happy with our defense. Billy Cahill (Warriors), Zack Robinette (Edwardsville), Zach Thatcher (Roxana), Kirk Heischmidt (Marquette), Mark Parker (Edwardsville) and Evan Monckton (Alton) have good size and good physical tools. "In goal, I think Ben Tobin" (Bethalto) is the best goaltender in the league. Paul Dix (Marquette) played outstanding against us and Matt Oberlohr (Alton) is a big kid and an outstanding goalie. "So I think we have a goaltending advantage and a team speed advantage. Our defense will be solid. It should be a good game, but we have one overpowering line and I don't think they can handle it."

Kahoks send five to MVCHA all-star game

By Brian Bretsch
Staff writer

The Collinsville Kahoks ice hockey team will be represented Saturday in the Mississippi Valley Club Hockey Association all-star game. Five Collinsville players were named to the MVCHA Northern Division squad that will play the Southern Division all-stars 4:15 p.m. Saturday at the U.S. Ice Sports Complex in Fairview Heights. Joe Ditch, Nathan Mueller, Kenny Reed, Brandon Murphy and Chris Oliver will represent the Kahoks. The five players selected is the most allowed for one team. O'Fallon and Belleville Altoth each also had five players each selected. "I'm real proud of that," Collinsville coach Dave Oberkell said. "I knew we had some good players but didn't know the others coaches thought that way." Ditch was the Kahoks leading scorer (30 goals, 18 assists) this season and placed third overall in MVCHA Class AA. Ditch netted at least one goal in all four the Kahoks playoff games.

"He had a very remarkable season," Oberkell said. "He would get the puck and take control of wherever he was at. He was a definite force out there. He played with a lot of heart. He is a strong skater and he knew his position. I had to remind myself to give him a pat on the back because he got so used to him doing something outstanding that it became commonplace."

Kicking off the season

Breakers capture district crown

Edwardsville wins eighth straight YMCA championship

After eight consecutive district championships, Edwardsville Breakers swim coach Bob Rettle said the titles just keep getting sweeter.

Rettle's team came away with the team title at the St. Louis YMCA District meet Sunday at the Centralia Recreation Center.

Edwardsville finished with 1,731 points to outdistance second-place Centralia-Mount Vernon, which finished with 1,610.

Kirkwood-Webster Groves (Mo.) was third with 1,159.

"This is the most satisfying one yet," said Rettle. "We had so many swimmers who progressed very well during the season. We lost a lot of people from last season who graduated off the team." That, plus the fact that the Breakers were able to fend off unseaten Centralia-Mount Vernon Barracudas made the title sweeter.

"We enjoyed the competition with Centralia," said Rettle. "They've got a very nice team."

Individuals who swam state qualifying times or finished first will advance to the Illinois Area State Championships this weekend at Nequa Valley High School of Naperville in suburban Chicago.

The Breakers advanced swimmers in 38 individual events, led 17 relays.

SWC proves huge test for first-year coach

Brey saw too much of Lytle in late February when he scored a school-record 48 points to lead the Tigers to an 83-76 victory over Alton.

Lytle was 19 of 23 from the free-throw line and had 17 rebounds.

"He didn't make many mistakes that night," Brey said. "He's not super fancy, just consistent. We tried fronting him. We tried playing behind him, and we tried two different zones, but we couldn't stop him."

That's the way it's been for most non-Southwestern Conference teams when they've had to go up against the Metro East's toughest league. It's been awfully tough to beat any SWC squad this season.

The question remains, though: Does the league have a team strong enough to beat the state's No. 2-ranked team in the state, Mount Vernon?

The unbeaten Rams are on target to meet the SWC sectional winner next Tuesday at SIU Carbondale Super-sectional.

Warriors send 3 to all-star border battle

Missouri, so hopefully we'll get that in there somewhere."

Two of the toughest matches were expected to be back to back, with Jerod Bruner (Chatham Glenwood) taking on Tom Hanak (Brentwood, Mo.) at 130 pounds, followed by Mike Imeokparia (Chatham Glenwood) meeting MSHSAA Class 4A state champion Jake Hopson (Oakville, Mo.) at 135 pounds.

"I'm really interested in seeing those matches," Simon said. "At 130, both guys placed fifth in state. Imeokparia didn't place in Illinois, but he's a tough kid. Also at 160, (St. Charles, Mo., West's Mark) Vollmer is a really tough kid, but so is (Althoff's Dan) Quartz."

"What should also be interesting about the tournament is that it comes a couple of weeks after the season has ended and the wrestlers are a little out of shape. These guys aren't used to wrestling out of shape, and that's always fun to watch."

The all-star event also allows the wrestlers to compete just for fun.

"It's mostly informal, an informal way to let these kids get together," Simon said.

"It's a relaxed atmosphere where you get some good matchups. The fans get to see these guys go at it and college scouts in the area get a chance to see a lot of good wrestlers at one time. It's a lot of fun for everyone in the area. You always want to win, and the wrestlers want to win, but there isn't that pressure of a state tournament."

"It's always good to get some of these good matchups and it's nice to honor these seniors who have put in four years of hard work and get to be in an all-star meet."

fourth with 1,053 points, easily outdistancing fifth-place Jefferson City (Mo.), which had 703.5 points. Belleville was sixth with 666 points, followed by St. Charles (Mo.) 517, Hannibal (Mo.) 453, Hazelwood (Mo.) 384.5, West St. Louis County 348, South St. Louis County 85 and Missouri Aquatic Club 42.

"Our swimmers really stepped up the finals," said Rettle. "I thought the team scoring would be very close, but I felt a little better after the medley relays."

After Saturday's preliminaries, Edwardsville's 9-10 boys medley relay team was seeded second behind Centralia. But in the finals, the Breakers took nearly 10 seconds off their seed time to win easily in 2:23.57.

Similarly, the Breakers' 11-12 boys medley relay team took nearly five seconds off the second-seeded time to beat Centralia in 2:11.97.

Several Breakers swimmers qualified for the state meet in four events, the most allowed under YMCA rules. Edwardsville swimmers going to the state meet in four events are: Ashley Hayes (11-12 girls), Fran Moody (9-10 girls), Beth Rhodes (15-18 girls), Erin Mattson (9-10 girls), Dana Caton (under-8 boys), Andrew Carr (under-8 boys), Brett Ostrander (9-10 boys), Aaron Trimmer (13-14 boys), Justin Schooley (13-14 boys), Matt Dittman (13-14 boys) and David Meyer (13-14 boys).

Breakers going to the state finals in three events are: Lauren Blair (13-14 girls), Whitney Moss (13-14 girls), Anthony Flamer (9-10 boys) and Joe Rhodes (15-18 boys). Other Breakers who qualified for individual events at the state finals were: Erin Mattson (9-10 girls), Timothy Cronin (15-18 boys), Kasey Breda (9-10 girls), Christian Rhoden (under-8 boys), Luke Shaters (11-12 boys) and Christopher Eilers (11-12 boys).

Granite City's future parks

Park District to conduct long-range plan meetings

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

More trails in Wilson Park?

Or more ball fields, a bigger pool or even an enlarged park district?

Granite City Park District residents will get a chance to voice their opinion on what programs, activities and whatever else they want the parks to provide during public meetings sometime this summer.

The meetings will be held to help the district develop a five-year master plan.

Granite City Park District Director Dave Polivick said the plan would be developed in the next 8-10 months.

"One of the most important parts of that is getting information from the public as to what they want from the park district," he said. "We're going to be having some public meetings, we're going to be sending out surveys to the general public and to the students of the schools."

He said that would probably start in the summer or early fall and the plan would be complete by the end of the year.

"It provides us with a clear sense of how to budget each year," he said. "It provides us with information on programming the public is wanting to take advantage of and which programs are not too popular."

Another advantage to having a master plan is that it will give the district more leverage when seeking state money.

"This is going to enable us to receive extra points from the Illinois Department of Natural Resources when we apply for grants," he said. "Especially if we get public involvement in that plan."

He said more grants are becoming available from state agencies, such as the Illinois Department of Transportation and IDNR. Polivick said the district is also working with other agencies to expand recreational opportunities.

One area is in bicycle trails.

"I've been talking with and attending meetings with people from Trailnet, Inc.," he said. "They have an overall plan that does include Granite City, but it's very preliminary."

Polivick said those plans — part of a regional greenway plan — are "grandiose" and will require much cooperation and outside funding.

"The moneys are not there right now for those sort of things," Polivick said. "But the plan is a very good one. It connects all the dots and we would like to become part of it."

In addition to programs and buildings, Polivick said they would also be seeking input on an expansion of the Park District boundaries to include areas in Mitchell and Pontoon Beach.

He said it "makes a lot of sense" to expand the district to include the entire Granite City School District.

We serve those folks now, but the people who are not in the Granite City Park district have to pay higher rates," he said. "If they were included in our boundaries, they would pay lower rates."

Such an expansion would require a referendum. "These are years away, but nothing goes very quickly," he said.

Input sought for July 4 celebration

'It's kind of hard to top a good thing'

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Last year, an estimated 20,000 people came out to Wilson Park for games, concerts and fireworks during the "Patriots in the Park" finale.

This year there should be more of the same, but planners are also looking for something even better.

"We just had our first meeting, so we're not really sure what exactly we're going to do," said Granite City Park District Director Dave Polivick. "We've got to top last year's somehow, but I'm not sure exactly how we're going to do that."

The Independence Day celebration will run from Wednesday, June 30 through Sunday, July 4.

While a schedule has not been set, Polivick said there would be a carnival, fireworks, the petting zoo, mud volleyball, carriage rides and concerts and a Civil War encampment.

"We're having difficulty in trying to think up new things; it's kind of hard to top a good thing," he said. "We're open to suggestions."

Polivick said people with suggestions they should submit it in writing to Director of Parks and Recreation, Granite City Park District, 2900 Benton St., Granite City, Ill., 62040.

Other possibilities include a patriotic decorating contest for homes and businesses, asking area churches to toll their bells at noon on July 4 and some kind of program to honor area veterans.

"In the past, we have recognized those folks, but we want to do something special," he said.

Polivick said the Park District also wants to encourage flag display.

"Years ago, that was a common thing to do, but it's kind of fallen by the wayside a little bit," he said.

One major sponsor — Alton Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co. — has already committed to supporting the celebration.

"Each year, we're getting more sponsors," Polivick said. All the sponsors from are expected to come back from last year.

"I'm pretty sure the same thing is going to happen this year," Polivick said. "Our goal is to provide some family entertainment that's easy to get to, easy to get away from and have a good time while you're there."

"I can't imagine how many thousands of people came through during the five-day event. It was a huge success."

"This thing has become the second-most popular Independence Day celebration in the St. Louis area," Polivick added. "Second only to Fair St. Louis."

DNA testing helps tria prosecutors, innocent criminals

By Dennis Grubaugh
Staff writer

DNA freed David Gray and imprisoned Dennis Robinson. And, until last week, it kept Dennis Robinson on the run.

Though involved in separate criminal cases, the three men share a common thread: They are among the most recent examples of how genetics has opened a whole new chapter in the way criminal investigations are being won and lost.

Gray, 46, of Alton was in prison for 20 years for attempted murder, robbery and rape before DNA tests last year exonerated him from seminal evidence left on bedclothes at an Alton home in 1978.

Robinson, on the other hand, is awaiting a long prison stay after DNA evidence was used to convict him of a Madison County murder Feb. 22.

It also was DNA evidence that led authorities to Rabbit, the alleged "South Side Rapist," accused in a string of assaults on both sides of the Mississippi River between 1988 and 1997. He is in jail in St. Genevieve, Mo., awaiting processing on more than a dozen rapes in St. Louis, two in Madison County and two in Jefferson County, Mo.

Authorities say they have the DNA evidence to connect him to each case.

Gray said he thinks he would still be in prison without the genetic testing that he fought for while an inmate at Pontiac Correctional Center.

"If it wasn't for DNA, they still wouldn't know who did it," he said.

Authorities, however, don't have other suspects. They are convinced that Gray is connected to the crime.

They have appealed a judge's ruling granting Gray a new trial. The appeal likely to be acted on for a couple of months.

Originally, Gray was released from incarceration on strict, homebound electronic monitoring. Last month, however, the 5th District Appellate Court granted a motion to amend the terms of monitoring. Now, Gray is free to come and go from his mother's house in Alton as long as he checks in with his probation officer once a month, he said.

The Gray case has frustrated prosecutors. It occurred long before the science of genetic analysis forced the call for a new trial. Since 1978, the victim, her husband and other key figures have died.

Authorities said they were left with such slim evidence to keep Gray in prison that they were forced to exonerate the victim's husband's body to run DNA tests on bone fragments. The tests showed the semen stain on the victim's body was not left by either the husband or Gray, which further complicates the case.

Gray proclaimed his innocence from the start, but it wasn't until about 1987 that he heard about DNA testing and how it had exonerated some unjustly accused people. He used a state law that became effective in 1988 to get the court to authorize his test.

The new law says a judge must order DNA testing if evidence subject to testing was used in trial but not genetically analyzed. The evidence must have been properly preserved and the identity of the perpetrator must be central to the case. While in the penitentiary, Gray said he talked to many inmates who also wanted to undergo testing.

"I have great empathy for any body who wants to get this test done," he said.

DNA evidence was the prime catalyst in Robinson's conviction in an area murder case last month.

Robinson, 37, of St. Louis had been accused of the strangulation of Susan Marie Keen, 37, of Glasgow, Mo., in January 1997. Authorities said he met her in a St. Louis bar and a few hours later strangled her and dumped her body along side Interstate 270 just inside the Madison County line.

The evidence was compelling: Prosecutor Keith Jensen called to the stand experts who testified that the seminal material found on Keen matched Robinson's DNA to the likelihood of one in 13 billion.

The world's population is estimated at only 6 billion, according to this year's almanacs.

Keen's blood was also found on Robinson's shirt. A state DNA expert concluded the chances were 694 million to one that it was Keen's blood. Because Robinson still has to be sentenced, Jensen didn't want to comment too much about the evidence, but he has been involved in a few cases where DNA played a role.

"Any kind of scientific evidence makes it easier for a jury, whether it's a fingerprint, chemical evidence or DNA. DNA has come to the point where it offers extreme certainty, and that corroborates testimony," he said.

Seniors brave cold for fair

Thousand attend event at SIUE

By Sanford J. Schmidt
Staff writer

About a thousand senior citizens braved Old Man Winter Monday to dance, check their health and have a great time.

The annual Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville Senior Fair was a success, despite the relatively low attendance because of the weather, said Anthony Traxler, director of the university's Gerontology Program.

"This is a wonderful example of a town and gown event," Traxler said.

The event featured dozens of health and social service agencies from surrounding counties, said Dave Attaway, director of the university's continuing education department.

The day featured health screening, stress screenings, live music and dance instruction.

It was about half entertainment and half education, Traxler said.

"It was a wonderful event," said Nancy Caprelian, a public relations director for St. Elizabeth's Health Center in Granite City.

Show looks at 100 years of American music

Collinsville Christian Academy to present 'Broadway Review'

By Alene Hill
Correspondent

Music lovers will have one chance to catch "A Broadway Review" presented by the senior chorus of the Collinsville Christian Academy at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the church auditorium, 1203 Vandalia.

"A Broadway Review" follows the nearly 100-year history of the distinctly American musical form, beginning with its earliest days.

"We will have singing, dancing and some narration that tells the story of the golden years of Broadway up to the present day," said Donald Douglas, the school's choral director and fine arts coordinator. "It's plenty of good music, and the audience will have the chance to learn about the history at the same time."

The review is divided into periods, Douglas said, beginning with the early years, the music of Tin Pan Alley that features lyrics and compositions originating from New York's famous district.

The 1940s began a period of work with the collaboration of the legendary team Rogers and Hammerstein and Frank Loesser. Musicals such as "Oklahoma," "Carousel" and "Where's Charley?" drew increasingly larger audiences to Broadway stages.

The Broadway musicals of the 1950s and '60s will feature selections from "Cabaret," "Gypsy," "Applause," "Guys and Dolls," "Hello, Dolly" and "Camelot."

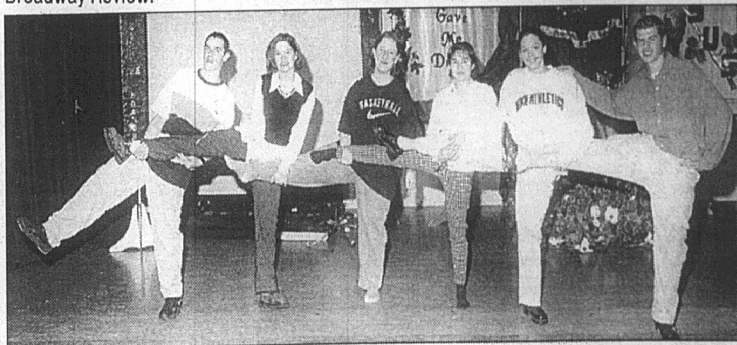

By the early 1970s through the present day, Broadway was featuring the work of composers and lyricists Stephen Sondheim, Tim Rice and Andrew Lloyd Weber in popular works such as "Jesus Christ, Superstar," "Les Miserables," "Chorus Line" and "Grease."

Tickets are $5 and can be bought at the door. For more information, call 345-4224.

Young artists create mural

By Steve Whitworth

Customers at Burger King, 2204 Troy Road, Edwardsville, recently were treated to the unveiling of a new piece of art.

"Mural of Our Wondrous Ocean" was painted by pupils in the Creative Express Mural Class IV. The children, ages 9-10, last week attended the unveiling of the artwork, done in acrylic paints on canvas.

Parents and customers applauded as the drape came off the mural, painted in bright purples, blues, greens, reds and yellows.

Comedy tops weekend box office

Robert De Niro's portrayal of a neurotic mob boss who turns to Billy Crystal for therapy beat the teen love-games flick "Cruel Intentions" to finish No. 1 at the weekend box office, estimates showed.

"Analyze This" earned $17.7 million in its debut, far ahead of the "Cruel Intentions" opening of $13.2 million, according to figures released Sunday by Exhibitor Relations Co. Inc.

The comedy was a victory of sorts for both De Niro and Crystal, outdoing their most recent openings by millions. De Niro's action thriller "Ronin" debuted with $12.7 million and Crystal's "My Giant," opened with $3.1 million.

"Cruel Intentions," the latest film geared toward a teen audience, failed to beat the openings of other recent teen films such as "She's All That" and "Varsity Blues."

Nonetheless, "Cruel Intentions" did bring in more than the $11 million it reportedly cost to make. It stars Sarah Michelle Gellar, Ryan Phillippe and Reese

'Private Ryan' favorite for best picture

Spielberg's director award points to movie as Oscar winner

The directors have honored the directors, the actors the actors and the writers the writers. Now the Oscar picture is as clear as it's going to get.

"Saving Private Ryan" appears to have the inside track on winning best picture at the Academy Awards on March 21, in light of Saturday night's Directors Guild of America award to its director, Steven Spielberg.

Gwyneth Paltrow of "Shakespeare in Love" is the favorite for best actress, after her award Sunday night at the Screen Actors Guild ceremony. A surprise SAG award to Roberto Benigni for "Life is Beautiful" gave a huge boost to his chances, previously seen as remote, for an acting Oscar.

The prospects for supporting acting Oscars for Kathy Bates for "Primary Colors" and Robert Duvall for "A Civil Action" are also looking brighter after their Screen Actors Guild victories.

And the screenwriters of "Shakespeare in Love" and "Out of Sight," honored last month by their peers, are the front-runners for the original and adapted screenplay Oscars.

Spielberg's Directors Guild win was his third. He also was honored for "The Color Purple" (1985) and "Schindler's List" (1993).

Only four times has the Directors Guild winner not repeated at the Academy Awards. The winner of the directing Oscar also usually sees his film take a best picture award.

Although the Screen Actors Guild awards are still young — in their fifth year — they are becoming a strong predictor of Oscar winners because of a significant overlap of the membership of the actors' union and the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

Benigni, the Italian director-actor-writer who created the comic-tragic story of a father trying to shield his son from the horrors of Holocaust, lifted SAG presenter Helen Hunt and spun her around, then said in broken English he was so happy that "every organ of my body is moving in a very bad way."

Benigni's award was the biggest surprise and suggested the best actor Oscar later this month is a toss-up. He beat such strong nominees as Joseph Fiennes ("Shakespeare in Love"), Tom Hanks ("Saving Private Ryan"), Ian McKellen ("Gods and Monsters") and Nick Nolte ("Affliction").

Paltrow, awarded for her role as the heiress who falls in love with a young William Shakespeare in "Shakespeare in Love," paid tribute to her mother, Blythe Danner, as "the most brilliant, beautiful, profound actress I know."

Paltrow also won a Golden Globe and is now a favorite for an Academy Award.

"This is just such an honor to be recognized by my peers. You'll never know quite what this means to me," said Paltrow, nominated along with Cate Blanchett in "Elizabeth," Jane Horrocks in "Little Voice," Meryl Streep in "One True Thing" and Emily Watson in "Hilary and Jackie."

"Shakespeare in Love" also won the ensemble acting prize for a film.

In other film categories, Bates, the politically savvy campaign troubleshooter in "Primary Colors," and Duvall, the tough, baseball-loving corporate attorney in "A Civil Action," won awards.

"I'm just thrilled, absolutely thrilled," supporting-actress winner Bates said backstage.

The other supporting actress nominees were Brenda Blethyn for "Little Voice," Judi Dench for "Shakespeare in Love," Rachel Griffiths for "Hilary and Jackie" and Lynn Redgrave for "Gods and Monsters."

Duvall won for supporting actor, beating David Kelly for "Waking Ned Devine," Geoffrey Rush for "Shakespeare in Love" and Billy Bob Thornton for "A Simple Plan."

Last year, four of those receiving SAG awards went on to pick up Oscars: Jack Nicholson, Helen Hunt, Robin Williams and Kim Basinger. Only Gloria Stuart didn't get an Academy Award.

Russian figure skating champion Inna Volianskaia stars as Ariel in "Disney On Ice — The Little Mermaid." The show runs March 24 through 28 at Kiel Center.

'Little Mermaid On Ice' to skate into Kiel Center

Ice show remains faithful to Disney film

By Ronnie Roy
Staff writer

"Little Mermaid On Ice." It may sound like an exotic drink, but it's really the latest in family entertainment by Feld Entertainment and the Disney company.

"Disney On Ice — The Little Mermaid" faithfully recreates the 1989 Academy-Award winning film that reaffirmed Disney's status as the leader in film animation. It will run for nine performances March 24 through 28 at Kiel Center.

Loosely based on the Hans Christian Andersen fairy tale, "The Little Mermaid" is the story of Ariel, a young, independent mermaid princess intrigued by life on land. When she falls in love with a human, Prince Eric, she strikes a deal with Ursula, the sea witch, for a chance at life on land.

There's a catch, of course, and Ariel has to win Eric's heart or lose everything.

"It doesn't stray from the film at all. Not one iota," said skater Reggie Mack, who plays Eric's mentor, Grimsby, in the production. "It's the movie verbatim."

The human and mermaid cast are joined by Sebastian the crab, Flounder the fish and Scuttle the seagull. The Academy Award-winning score by Alan Menken and Howard Ashman features such popular songs as "Under The Sea," "Part Of Your World" and "Kiss The Girl."

"It's an excellent show. The special effects and costumes are incredible," Mack said. "We use a bi-level stage to differentiate the land from water."

Production Designer Robert L. Smith designed a bi-level stage set to present the surface world of Prince Eric and the undersea realm of King Triton. A deck 14 feet off the ice surface represents the water line and home of Prince Eric. Two large elevators carry people and props from one level to another.

The show features Russian skaters Inna Volianskaia as Ariel and Alexei Killakov as Eric.

"There's a scene when Ariel first gets her legs, and she's skating with no skates on. It's so incredible," Mack said. "We've got a lot of incredible skaters, and they all get along so well. It's one of the best groups I've skated with."

It's good the cast gets along, given that they've typically put on nine shows a week since the tour started in October. They put on 25 shows in 12 days in Boston, Mack said.

Show times for "Disney On Ice — The Little Mermaid" are 7:30 p.m. March 24; 10:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. March 25; 7:30 p.m. March 26; noon, 3:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. March 27; 1 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. March 28. Tickets are $12.50, $14.50, $17.50 and $30 (VIP-rinkside).

Raptor Day Saturday at Mounds

Program planned
on birds of prey

Raptor Awareness Day will be at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Chakia Mounds Interpretive Center auditorium, featuring a program on birds of prey by the World Bird Sanctuary.

They will bring live raptors, such as an eagle, buzzard, falcon and owl, and perform a fly-over above the audience. This free program for all ages will inform visitors about the differences and similarities among these birds of prey.

"Fake or Authentic? Southwestern Indian Crafts and Jewelry," a free lecture, will be presented by Tony Eriacho at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Interpretive Center auditorium.

Eriacho is a Zuni Indian from the Zuni Pueblo in New Mexico, and he markets Zuni crafts and jewelry throughout the United States.

He will discuss how to distinguish authentic Indian-made items from non-native ones, many of which are produced in foreign countries. He will examine the characteristics of Southwestern Indian fetishes, silverwork, turquoise jewelry, kachinas and more. The lecture is free and open to the public.

The spring Equinox sunrise observance will be Sunday, March 21, at the reconstructed Woodhenge. Arrive by 5:45 a.m. to hear a presentation on the discovery, form and function of this Mississippian sun calendar, and watch as the rising sun aligns with two posts in this circular monument and appears to emerge from the front of Monks Mound.

The Kahok Dancers, a non-native group, will present interpretive performances of Indian dance at 2 and 3 p.m. Sunday, March 21, in the Interpretive Center auditorium. These Plains-style dance presentations are free and open to the public.

The "Mounds of the Eastern U.S." exhibit continues through April, featuring photographs, maps, illustrations and other information about 24 mound sites. Included are the earliest known Archaic period mounds at Watson Brake, La. (3500 B.C.), and Poverty Point, La. (1500 B.C.).

Strategy, power part of baseball

Sport maintains its hold on writer

Trivia

Kevin Carbery

By Kevin Carbery
Staff writer

I do not necessarily exclude people from being my friend if they don't like baseball.

But I can only completely trust those who know when to hit and run and how to throw a curve.

One of the best quotes I have ever read was from legendary sportswriter Red Smith, who said, "Baseball is dull only to dull minds." I relish the strategy, power and athleticism of the game.

I grew up playing some form of baseball practically every day in the warm weather. If we had a bunch of kids, we played a regular game. If we had three or four, we'd play fuzball, a form of baseball using tennis balls. If there were two of us, we'd play Indian ball, where you toss the ball in the air to yourself and try to hit it by the fielder. If I was by myself, I'd throw a ball against a wall.

I would not go anywhere without my glove. When we would visit my grandparents in south St. Louis, I would have a ballglove with me in case guys were playing fuzball in the alley or softball in the park. I even took a glove along when I went to boot camp, thinking there might be some free time. They made me mail it home.

You want to know how nuts I am about the game? In 1986, when I was 24, I had problems with my right shoulder and was told by a doctor my ballplaying days were probably over. Well, I spent the summer learning how to throw lefty by tossing a baseball around with a friend. After a month or so, I at least looked like I knew what I was doing. As time went on, my right shoulder got better and now I can throw with either hand.

As you may have gathered, this week's quiz is on baseball.

1. Hank Aaron finished his major league career playing for which team in 1976?

2. Who holds the St. Louis Cardinal record for highest slugging percentage achieved in a full season?

3. Which all-time great had the nickname of "The Iron Horse"?

4. Which team brought Satchel Paige into the major leagues in 1948?

5. Which owner of the St. Louis Browns had a midget bat for his team in a regular season game?

6. The Philadelphia Athletics moved to what other city before settling in Oakland?

7. Which pitcher holds the record with 17 strikeouts in a World Series game?

8. Which current big-league manager was known as "The Human Rain Delay" during his playing days?

9. Which Hall of Fame umpire was known to throw players out of a game for calling him "Catfish"?

10. Who hit more homers in his career — Stan Musial, Billy Williams or Dave Kingman?

ANSWERS: 1. The Milwaukee Brewers. 2. Rogers Hornsby, with a .756 mark in 1925. He hit .403 and smacked 39 homers that season. Mark McGwire finished at .752 last year with 70 homers and a .299 batting average. 3. Lou Gehrig. 4. Cleveland. 5. Bill Veeck, who is one of my heroes. I wish all team owners were as imaginative as he was. 6. Kansas City. 7. Bob Gibson, who did it against Detroit in 1968. 8. Mike Hargrove, now the manager of the Indians. 9. Bill Klem. If you have ever seen a photo of him, you would know why people gave him the unflattering nickname. 10. Musial, with 475. Kingman hit 442 and Williams had 426.

I will host the following upcoming trivia events: Lafayette Park United Methodist Church Trivia on Saturday, April 24, call 771-9214 to sign up; Kiwanis Club Trivia at the Kirkwood Community Center on Saturday, May 1, call 414-0916.

Horoscope

THURSDAY, MARCH 11

The moon is in responsible Capricorn now, lending power to those seeking position and honors. Mercury, retrograde in Aries, is responsible for that little, regrettable faux pas that allows us to confront our own subconscious mind. You could very well think of a backward way to succeed in a forward-moving pursuit now.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY

(March 11). It's a star year for opportunity and growth. Several key elements of your life are taking shape. First, money problems lessen because of a small business you or a relative starts. At work, you get a new position that translates into money by June. Suddenly, there's lots more fun and excitement in your life by July. The best signs for singles are Leo and Aries.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Communication may be strained, so be patient. Contract negotiations can be finalized now, and you are ready to make that next step in commitment. A friend helps you see the hidden benefits.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). You may feel uncommunicative and reserved. Be willing to trust more and accept the truth that emerges. Things are finalized, and you must take on more responsibility. Your health is important now; give it care.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Money issues feel pressing, and you are tempted to see things as half-empty rather than half-full. Travel or a good movie with a romantic person in your life helps you to have the fun you need to lighten your perspective.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). You may be inclined to brood over your destiny at the moment and force a separation through an argument. It is best to focus on completing projects at home or initiating a financial strategy for the future.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Facts from the past may rise to haunt you. Just accept responsibility, and get on with it. Your connection with others is what's important now, and your partner can help you expand your possibilities for resolution.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). This is an extremely powerful and potent day, and while things planned with others do not work out, you finally have the green light on projects important to your future. Money begins to flow as you enjoy your work more.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). You finally can make the leap toward commitment in your life. Trust the new person who brings you powerful opportunity, and allow yourself to move outside your comfort area and be transformed.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). You see through things clearly and are able to set into motion the changes that need to take place. Do not dwell on fear or limitations from the past. You can dissolve all that and really begin to progress.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Early-morning mental pursuits are improved with the input of an equally intellectually astute partner.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). At last, you have clarity and freedom to initiate action, but finish up old business first this afternoon. Your money-making ideas prosper, and you enjoy the approval of co-workers.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Brilliant creative ideas solve problems, make money and promise greater personal freedom. You need to slow down and clean up the details after noon; don't start anything new.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Emotional harmony is strong. Details from the past will take up most of the day, but your productivity sparks in the afternoon.

SIUE dedicates building in honor of Katherine Dunham

By Sanford J. Schmidt
Staff writer

Katherine Dunham was ill and could not attend the dedication of an SIUE building in her name, but her proteges spoke volumes in her behalf.

Edward Brown, a master drummer at Dunham's dance studio in East St. Louis, played the djemba, a West African drum, while Theo Jamison and Jack Williams, two of her former students, joined in a brief impromptu demonstration of her dance style.

"We couldn't hear Katherine Dunham's voice, but we heard the sound of her disciples," said David Werner, chancellor of Southern Illinois University Edwardsville. "You are now in Katherine Dunham Hall."

Dunham Hall was formerly the Communications Building on the Edwardsville campus. It was dedicated March 3.

Werner said only a select few people have university buildings named after them but that Dunham is a natural choice.

"She is best known for integrating art into life. She is a pioneer of dance and dance technique and a pioneer of black culture and heritage," Werner said.

Dunham, 89, is known throughout the world for development of the dance style and technique that bears her name. She has a doctorate in anthropology from the University of Chicago and studied cultures in Haiti, Jamaica and other parts of the world.

She is the director of SIUE's Performing Arts Training Center in East St. Louis.

Comedy top movie of weekend

Witherspoon and sets the plot of the love-games story 'Les Liaisons Dangereuses' against a Manhattan prep school.

Meanwhile, Nicolas Cage's dark "8mm," about a private investigator who infiltrates the porn subculture in search of a runaway girl, finished No. 3 with $7 million.

Though it lost 51 percent of its audience in its second week, studio officials remained optimistic.

"This is really all to the benefit of Nick Cage," said Ed Russell, Columbia's executive vice president of publicity.

"He has really driven the audience into a very intriguing film."

"The Other Sister," a love story about two mentally challenged people starring Juliette Lewis, was in fourth place with $5.6 million.

It lost just 15 percent of its audience in its second week.

"In the face of competition like 'Analyze This' and the adult market, I think we did very well. I think it's about word of mouth. The public does it for you," said Chuck Viane, senior vice president of distribution for Buena Vista Pictures.

Overall, the box office was down 8.5 percent from last year, when the megahit "Titanic" was still packing theaters.

Here are estimated grosses at North American theaters for Friday through

Sunday:

1. "Analyze This," $17.7 million.
2. "Cruel Intentions," $13.2 million.
3. "8mm," $7 million.
4. "The Other Sister," $5.6 million.
5. "Payback," $4.1 million.
6. "October Sky," $3.7 million.
7. "My Favorite Martian," $3.6 million.
8. (tie) "Message in a Bottle," $3.4 million.
8. "Shakespeare in Love," $3.4 million.
10. "She's All That," $2.6 million.

Young artists create mural

in the ocean over a coral reef, while dolphins leap into the air on either side. Colorful planets and stars shine in the sky.

Creative Express is a nonprofit organization that provides drama and art classes for children. It has its main branch in Alton and a satellite site in Edwardsville-Glen Carbon.

The children in the latter class meet at New Bethel United Methodist Church in Granite City. Sessions are held for two hours each on nights after school.

Creative Express is a member of the Arts and Education Council of Greater St. Louis, which supports it with grants. Other grants come from the Illinois Arts Council, Target and Burger King.

The Edwardsville-Glen Carbon branch has been active since 1992. When the Burger King opened last spring, its mural class created the first mural to be displayed inside the restaurant. This session's mural class created the fourth such painting.

The mural has a space in the center that fits over a permanent clay sculpture that was created by the class' art teacher, Leigh Janes. Each time a new class does its own mural, the last one is taken down and the new one put up around the sculpture.

The members of Mural Class IV were: Emily Bihl of Edwardsville; Erica Brown of Caseyville; Theresa Campe of Troy; and Emily Dietz, Erica Isenberg, Andrew Gabalis and Adam Sarhage, all of Glen Carbon.

"The big purpose of the class is not only to give the children a creative outlook but to get them to do teamwork, too," said Ike Day, program director for Creative Express.

The children selected the theme of the mural then created sketches and worked with Janes on the composition and colors before completing the painting, Day said.

"I painted most of the space, and I drew the dolphins," said Theresa Campe, 10, a fourth-grader at Freeman School in Troy.
